A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

- "In Connecticut, a mortgagee [creditor] has legal title to the mortgaged property and the mortgagor [debtor] has equitable title, also called the equity of redemption." Barclays Bank of New York v. Ivler, 20 Conn. App. 163, 166, 565 A.2d 252, 253 (1989).
- "Connecticut is considered a 'title theory' state wherein the mortgagor [debtor] pledges property to the mortgagee [creditor] as security for a debt and conveys 'legal title' to the mortgaged premises; the mortgagor retains 'equitable title' or the 'equity of redemption'....The equity of redemption permits the mortgagor to regain legal title to the mortgaged property upon satisfying the conditions of the mortgage, which usually entails the payment of the mortgage debt in full." In Re Fitzgerald, 237 B.R. 252, 261 (Bkrtcy. D.Conn. 1999).
- "Generally, foreclosure means to cut off the equity of redemption, the equitable owner's right to redeem the property." Madison Hills Ltd. Partnership II v. Madison Hills, Inc., 35 Conn. App. 81, 90, 644 A.2d 363, 369 (1994).
- "Foreclosure is peculiarly an equitable action, and the court may entertain such questions as are necessary to be determined in order that complete justice may be done." Hartford Federal Savings & Loan Assn. v. Lenczyk, 153 Conn. 457, 463, 217 A.2d 694, 697 (1966).

Section 1: Strict Foreclosure in Connecticut

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

 Bibliographic resources relating to strict foreclosures in Connecticut.

DEFINITION:

- Connecticut is a title state: "Both by common-law rule and by statute, a mortgagee [creditor] in Connecticut is deemed to have taken legal title under the execution of a mortgage on real property. Conference Center, Ltd. v. TRC, 189 Conn. 212, 218, 455 A.2d 857 (1983); State v. Stonybrook, Inc., 149 Conn. 492, 496, 181 A.2d 601, cert. denied, 371 U.S. 185, 83 S.Ct. 265, 9 L.Ed.2d 227 (1962). Nonetheless, the mortgagee's legal title is a defeasible fee 'subject to [an equitable] right of redemption which persists until it is extinguished by an action of foreclosure.' State v. Stonybrook, Inc., supra, 496. Even after the initiation of a foreclosure action, the mortgagee's title does not become absolute until all eligible parties have failed to exercise their rights to redeem the property. City Lumber Co. of Bridgeport, Inc. v. Murphy, 120 Conn. 16, 19, 179 A. 339 (1935)." New Milford Savings Bank v. Jajer, 244 Conn. 251, 256 fn. 11, 708 A.2d 1378, 1382 (1998).
- Strict foreclosure: "Generally, foreclosure means to cut off the equity of redemption, the equitable owner's right to redeem the property. See Barclays Bank of New York v. Ivler, 20 Conn. App. 163, 166, 565 A.2d 252... 'Under our law, an action for strict foreclosure is brought by a mortgagee who, holding legal title, seeks . . . to foreclose an equity of redemption unless the mortgagor satisfies the debt on or before his law day. Cook v. Bartholomew, 60 Conn. 24, 27, 22 A. 444 (1891).' Barclays Bank of New York v. Ivler, supra, 166. The holder of the equity of redemption has until the passing of his law day to redeem the premises. Law days are set for subsequent encumbrancers in the inverse order of their priorities thereafter. The effect of the passing of the law day is that such right to redeem the premises is cut off and title to the property becomes unconditional in the encumbrancer." JP Morgan Chase Bank v. Gianopoulos et al., 131 Conn. App. 15, 21-22, 30 A.3d 697, 701 (2011).
- Law day: "Where a foreclosure decree has become absolute by the passing of the law days, the outstanding rights of redemption have been cut off and the title has become unconditional in the plaintiff [redeeming encumbrancer], with a consequent and accompanying right to possession. . The mortgagor has no remaining title or interest which he can convey." The City Lumber Co. of Bridgeport, Inc. v. Murphy, 120 Conn. 16, 25, 179 A. 339, 342 (1935).

- foreclosure vs. foreclosure by market sale vs. foreclosure by sale: "All liens and mortgages affecting real property may, on the written motion of any party to any suit relating thereto, be foreclosed (1) by a decree of sale instead of a strict foreclosure at the discretion of the court before which the foreclosure proceedings are pending, or (2) with respect to mortgages, as defined in section 49-24a, that are a first mortgage against the property, by a judgment of foreclosure by market sale upon the written motion of the mortgagee, as defined in section 49-24a, and with consent of the mortgagor, as defined in section 49-24a, in accordance with sections 49-24a to 49-24g, inclusive, 49-26 to 49-28, inclusive, and 49-31t." Conn. Gen. Stat. (2015) § 49-24.
- Substantial excess equity: "It has been held, however, that when the value of the property substantially exceeds the value of the lien being foreclosed, the trial court abuses its discretion when it refuses to order a foreclosure by sale."

  Voluntown v. Rytman, 27 Conn. App. 549, 555, 607 A.2d 896, 899 (1992).

COURT RULES:

Amendments to the Practice Book (Court Rules) are published in the Connecticut Law Journal and posted online.

Complaint

"The complaint in all actions seeking the foreclosure of a mortgage or other lien upon real estate shall set forth, in addition to the other essentials of such complaint: All encumbrances of record upon the property both prior and subsequent to the encumbrance sought to be foreclosed, the dates of such encumbrances, the amount of each and the date when such encumbrance was recorded..." CT Practice Book 10-69 (2016).

Appraisal

"At the time the plaintiff files a motion for judgment of foreclosure, the plaintiff shall serve on each appearing defendant, in accordance with Sections 10-12 through 10-17, a copy of the appraisal report of the property being foreclosed. The motion for judgment shall contain a certification that such service was made." CT Practice Book 23-16 (2016).

Listing of Law Days

(a) In any action to foreclose a mortgage or lien, any party seeking a judgment of strict foreclosure shall file, with the motion for judgment, a list indicating the order in which law days should be assigned to the parties to the action. The order of the law days so indicated shall reflect the information contained in the plaintiff's complaint, as that information may have been modified by the pleadings. Objections to the order of law days indicated on said list shall only be considered in the context of a motion for determination of priorities, which motion must be filed prior to the entry of judgment." CT Practice Book 23-17 (2016).

• Proof of Debt in Foreclosures

- "(a) In any action to foreclose a mortgage where no defense as to the amount of the mortgage debt is interposed, such debt may be proved by presenting to the judicial authority the original note and mortgage, together with the affidavit of the plaintiff or other person familiar with the indebtedness, stating what amount, including interest to the date of the hearing, is due, and that there is no setoff or counterclaim thereto.
- (b) No less than five days before the hearing on the motion for judgment of foreclosure, the plaintiff shall file with the clerk of the court and serve on each appearing party, in accordance with Sections 10-12 through 10-17, a preliminary statement of the plaintiff's monetary claim." CT Practice Book 23-18 (2016).

Defaults

"In an action commenced by a mortgagee prior to July 1, 2014, for the foreclosure of (1) a mortgage on residential real property consisting of a one to four-family dwelling occupied as the primary residence of the mortgagor, with a return date on or after July 1, 2008 . . . if no appearance has been entered for the mortgagor on or before the fifteenth day after the return day or, if the court has extended the time for filing an appearance and no appearance has been entered on or before the date ordered by the court, any other party to the action may make a motion that a default be entered for failure to appear." CT Practice Book 17-20(b) (2016).

Motions for judgment of foreclosure

"Since the effect of a default is to preclude the defendant from making any further defense in the case so far as liability is concerned, the judicial authority, at or after the time it renders the default, notwithstanding Section 17-32 (b), may also render judgment in foreclosure cases . . . provided the plaintiff has also made a motion for judgment and provided further that any necessary affidavits of debt or accounts or statements verified by oath, in proper form, are submitted to the judicial authority." CT Practice Book 17-33(b) (2016).

"In all foreclosure actions, motions for judgment shall not be filed prior to the expiration of 30 days after the return date." CT Practice Book 17-33A (2016).

• Oral Argument of Motions in Civil Matters

"Oral argument is at the discretion of the judicial authority except as to . . . motions for judgment of foreclosure . . . For those motions, oral argument shall be a matter of right, provided..." CT Practice Book 11-18(a) (2016).

Once you have identified useful cases, it is important to update the cases before you rely on them. Updating case law means checking to see if the cases are still good law. You can contact your local law librarian to learn about the tools available to you to update cases.

• 3333 Main Street, LLC v. SA Challenger, Inc., Superior Court, Judicial District of Fairfield at Bridgeport, No. FBT-CV15-6051921S (April 4, 2016). "Plaintiff . . . points to several procedural irregularities in the Prior Foreclosure proceedings which, it claims, resulted in its mortgage not being foreclosed out. Plaintiff notes that Judge Tyma's verbal order . . . giving it a law day was never entered as a court order on the electronic docket of the Prior Foreclosure.

Plaintiff seems to argue that the verbal granting of a law day was therefore ineffective. The court disagrees. . . . The absence of a formal written or electronic order is of no

- consequence. . . Subsequent law days were assigned generically to encumbrancer defendants such as 3333 Main Street, LLC 'in the inverse order of their priorities' which is now the standard form of order of judgment of strict foreclosure. 'Although several defendants may be involved, necessitating several law days, the court customarily announces only the law day for the owner of the equity redemption and orders that subsequent days be assigned to subsequent encumbrancers in the inverse order of their priorities.' Dennis R. Caron and Geoffrey K. Milne, Connecticut Foreclosures, An Attorney's Manual of Practice and Procedure, p. 334 (5th Ed. 2011). Since, as previously described, 3333 Main Street, LLC had as a matter or record, all the information necessary to calculate its own priority and its own law day, and had the right to request a judicial determination of priorities, but failed to do so, it was not prejudiced by the court's failure to assign to it a specific law day by date."
- 3333 Main Street, LLC v. SA Challenger, Inc., Superior Court, Judicial District of Fairfield at Bridgeport, No. FBT-CV15-6051921S (April 4, 2016). "[P] laintiff has cited no authority that the failure to file a List of Proposed Law Days is grounds for vacating a judgment of strict foreclosure or would prevent title from vesting when there has been no redemption. 3333 Main Street, LLC suffered no prejudice from SA Challenger's failure to file a List of Proposed Law Days listing it as an encumbrancer. . . Despite not appearing on a List of Proposed Law Days, it got the same treatment as all the other encumbrancer defendants who did appear on the two lists that had been filed, namely a law day in inverse order of priority. The failure to file a List of Proposed Law Days naming 3333 Main Street LLC as a defendant did not prevent its mortgage from being foreclosed out when it failed to redeem."
- Chase Home Finance, LLC v. Fequiere, 119 Conn App 570, 572, footnote 2, 989 A2d 606 (2010). "As one court has explained, 'MERS does not originate, lend, service, or invest in home mortgage loans. Instead, MERS acts as the nominal mortgagee for the loans owned by its members. The MERS system is designed to allow its members, which include originators, lenders, servicers, and investors, to assign home mortgage loans without having to record each transfer in the local land recording offices where the real estate securing the mortgage is located. . . . The benefit of naming MERS as the nominal mortgagee of record is that when the member transfers an interest in a mortgage loan to another MERS member, MERS privately tracks the assignment within its system but remains the mortgagee of record. According to MERS, this system saves lenders time and money, and reduces paperwork, by eliminating the need to prepare and record assignments when trading loans. . . . If, on the other hand, a MERS member transfers an interest in a mortgage loan to a non-MERS member,

- MERS no longer acts as the mortgagee of record and an assignment of the security instrument to the non-MERS member is drafted, executed, and typically recorded in the local land recording office.' (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Jackson v. Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc., 770 N.W.2d 487, 490–91 (Minn. 2009)."
- Ocwen Federal Bank v. Charles, 95 Conn. App. 315, 326, 898 A2d 197, 206 (2006). "We note that the plaintiff brought a foreclosure action. 'Such actions are equitable in nature and, therefore, do not give rise to a right to a jury trial under article first, § 19, of the Connecticut constitution.' 669 Atlantic Street Associates v. Atlantic-Rockland Stamford Associates, 43 Conn. App. 113, 129, 682 A.2d 572, cert. denied, 239 Conn. 949, 950, 686 A.2d 126 (1996). The defendants were not entitled to a jury trial on the foreclosure action. The court's decision to sever the equitable foreclosure action from the legal counterclaim is not of constitutional dimension, but properly is characterized as a claim involving the law of the case doctrine."
- New Milford Savings Bank v. Jajer, 244 Conn. 251, 256, 708
   A.2d 1378, 1382 (1998). "The law governing strict foreclosure lies at the crossroads between equitable remedies provided by the judiciary and the statutory remedies provided by the legislature."
- New England Savings Bank v. Lopez, 227 Conn. 270, 284, 630 A.2d 1010, 1018 (1993). "whether to order a strict foreclosure or a foreclosure by sale is a matter committed to the sound discretion of the trial court, to be exercised with regard to all the facts and circumstances of the case."
- F.D.I.C. v. M.F.P. Realty Associates, 870 F. Supp. 451, 454
   (D. Conn. 1994). "In Connecticut, it is within the Court's discretion whether to order foreclosure by sale or by strict foreclosure."
- Farmers & Mechanics Savings Bank v. Sullivan, 216 Conn. 341, 352, 579 A.2d 1054, 1059 (1990). "Frequently strict foreclosures are ordered, despite a property appraisal substantially higher than the mortgage debt, because the owner believes he will be able to redeem and he seeks to avoid the additional expense involved in a foreclosure by sale."
- Fidelity Trust Co. v. Irick, 206 Conn. 484, 487-488, 538 A.2d 1027, 1029 (1988). "Because the total of all liens, taxes, costs and fees, plus the estimated expenses of a foreclosure by sale of $7000, amounted to $123,580.22, and the appraiser valued the property at $96,750, the trial court concluded, in the exercise of its discretion, and the Appellate Court agreed, that strict foreclosure was proper in this case. We disagree."
- Bradford Realty Corporation v. Beetz, 108 Conn. 26, 31, 142 A. 395, 397 (1928). "As no equity in the property over and above the first mortgage and the plaintiff's mortgage was shown in defendant Cohen, the trial court wisely refused, in the exercise of its discretion, to impose upon the plaintiff the additional cost and expense of a foreclosure by sale."

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

 Bibliographic resources relating to foreclosure by sale mainly in Connecticut.

DEFINITION:

- "Connecticut provides for the foreclosure of a mortgage of real property by either public sale or by strict foreclosure. The property is foreclosed by strict foreclosure unless the court orders foreclosure by sale." In Re Fitzgerald, 237 B.R. 252, 261 (Bkrtcy.D.Conn. 1999).
- "All liens and mortgages affecting real property may, on the written motion of any party to any suit relating thereto, be foreclosed (1) by a decree of sale instead of a strict foreclosure at the discretion of the court before which the foreclosure proceedings are pending . . . " Conn. Gen. Stat. § 49-24 (2015). (Amended by PA 16-65, section 83, effective October 1, 2016)
- "The purpose of the judicial sale in a foreclosure action is to convert the property into money and, following the sale, a determination of the rights of the parties in the funds is made, and the money received from the sale takes the place of the property." National City Mortgage v. Stoecker, 92 Conn. App. 787, 794, 888 A2d 95, 100 (2006).
- Termination of the equity of redemption in foreclosure by sale: "The court finds that in Connecticut, the law is that the rights of a mortgagor [debtor] in mortgaged property are terminated by confirmation of a foreclosure sale, and that subsequent to such a sale, any interest the mortgagor may claim is in proceeds of the sale solely and not in the property. The delivery of a deed is a ministerial act only and does not constitute the event which terminates an equity of redemption." In the Matter of Loubier, 6 B.R. 298, 303 (1980).
- "...where the value of the property foreclosed exceeds the amount of the mortgage debt, the mortgagee is entitled to nothing more. Gruss v. Curry, 132 Conn. 22, 25-26, 42 A.2d 358 (1945). Accordingly, when the mortgagee takes title to the property, the fair market value of which exceeds the amount of the debt, its debt is satisfied by virtue of its ownership of the collateral. When the mortgagee becomes the owner of the property and its debt is satisfied, its status as mortgagee ceases and the rights and obligations established by the terms of the mortgage are nullified. See First National Bank & Trust Co. v. Griebel, 20 Conn. Sup. 460, 463-64, 139 A.2d 503 (1957). Under Connecticut law, the rights of the mortgagor in the mortgaged property are terminated by confirmation of the foreclosure sale, and subsequent to such sale, any interest the mortgagor may claim is in the proceeds of the sale solely and not in the property. In Re Kane, 236 B.R. 131, 133 (Bankr.D. Conn. 1999). '[A] judicial sale becomes complete and creates a legal right to obligations among parties when it is confirmed and ratified by the court.' Hartford Federal Savings & Loan Assn. v. Tucker, 13 Conn. App. 239, 247, 536 A.2d 962, cert. denied, 207 Conn. 805, 540 A.2d 373 (1988). Although the court's approval of a sale extinguishes the rights of redemption of other parties, it does not automatically vest title with the purchaser. General Statutes § 49-26 provides that after a sale has been ratified or confirmed by the court, 'a conveyance of the property sold shall be executed by the person appointed to make the sale, which conveyance shall vest in the purchaser the same estate that would have vested in the mortgagee or lienholder if the mortgage or lien had been foreclosed by strict foreclosure....' Accordingly, the muniment of title is the conveyance or the delivery of the deed to the purchaser." National City Mortgage v. Stoecker, 92 Conn. App. 787, 794-795, 888 A2d 95, 100-101 (2006).

Appraisal of property: "When the court in any such proceeding is of the opinion that a foreclosure by sale should be decreed, it shall, in its decree, appoint a person to make the sale and fix a day therefor, and shall direct whether the property shall be sold as a whole or in parcels, and how the sale shall be made and advertised; but, in all cases in which such sale is ordered, the court shall appoint one disinterested appraiser who shall, under oath, appraise the property to be sold and make return of the appraisal to the clerk of the court. Upon motion of the owner of the equity of redemption, the court shall appoint a second appraiser in its decree. If the plaintiff is the purchaser at sale, or if the property is redeemed at any time prior to the approval of the sale, or if for any reason the sale does not take place, the expense of the sale and appraisal or appraisals shall be paid by the plaintiff and be taxed with the costs of the case. If, after judgment has been rendered, the amount found to be due and for which foreclosure is decreed, together with the interest and the costs, is paid to the plaintiff before the sale, all further proceedings in the suit shall be stayed." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 49-25 (2015).

COURT RULES:

Amendments to the Practice Book (Court Rules) are published in the Connecticut Law Journal and posted online.

Complaint

"The complaint in all actions seeking the foreclosure of a mortgage or other lien upon real estate shall set forth, in addition to the other essentials of such complaint: All encumbrances of record upon the property both prior and subsequent to the encumbrance sought to be foreclosed, the dates of such encumbrances, the amount of each and the date when such encumbrance was recorded..." CT Practice Book 10-69 (2016).

Appraisal

"At the time the plaintiff files a motion for judgment of foreclosure, the plaintiff shall serve on each appearing defendant, in accordance with Sections 10-12 through 10-17, a copy of the appraisal report of the property being foreclosed. The motion for judgment shall contain a certification that such service was made." CT Practice Book 23-16 (2016).

Proof of Debt in Foreclosures

"(a) In any action to foreclose a mortgage where no defense as to the amount of the mortgage debt is interposed, such debt may be proved by presenting to the judicial authority the original note and mortgage, together with the affidavit of the plaintiff or other person familiar with the indebtedness, stating what amount, including interest to the date of the hearing, is due, and that there is no setoff or counterclaim thereto.

(b) No less than five days before the hearing on the motion for judgment of foreclosure, the plaintiff shall file with the clerk of the court and serve on each appearing party, in accordance with Sections 10-12 through 10-17, a preliminary statement of the plaintiff's monetary claim." CT

Practice Book 23-18 (2016).

Motions for Judgment of Foreclosure

"Since the effect of a default is to preclude the defendant from making any further defense in the case so far as liability is concerned, the judicial authority, at or after the time it renders the default, notwithstanding Section 17-32 (b), may also render judgment in foreclosure cases . . . provided the plaintiff has also made a motion for judgment and provided further that any necessary affidavits of debt or accounts or statements verified by oath, in proper form, are submitted to the judicial authority." CT Practice Book 17-33(b) (2016).

"In all foreclosure actions, motions for judgment shall not be filed prior to the expiration of 30 days after the return date." CT Practice Book 17-33A (2016).

• Oral Argument of Motions in Civil Matters

"Oral argument is at the discretion of the judicial authority except as to . . . motions for judgment of foreclosure . . . For those motions, oral argument shall be a matter of right, provided..." CT Practice Book 11-18(a) (2016).

CASES:

Once you have identified useful cases, it is important to update the cases before you rely on them. Updating case law means checking to see if the cases are still good law. You can contact your local law librarian to learn about the tools available to you to update cases.

National City Real Estate Services, LLC v. Tuttle, 155 Conn. App. 290, 295-296, 109 A.3d 932 (2015). "It is not unusual for a foreclosure sale to yield considerably less than the property's appraised fair market value. See Fidelity Trust Co. v. Irick, 206 Conn. 484, 490, 538 A.2d 1027 (1988). '[A] foreclosure by sale may result in bids not only less than the appraised value of the property, but even less than the foreclosing mortgagee's loan, allowable expenses and taxes. Because the trial court has control of the foreclosure proceedings, it can, in the exercise of its discretion, accept or reject a proposed sale.' Id. Further, as recognized by our Supreme Court, '[t]he usual notion of fair market value is inconsistent with the notion of a foreclosure sale. [Flair market value is generally said to be the value that would be fixed in fair negotiations between a desirous buyer and a willing seller, neither under any undue compulsion to make a deal.... An auction sale, such as a foreclosure sale, is not designed to reach that result because there is no opportunity for negotiations, and the seller, namely, the committee appointed by the trial court to conduct the sale, is under compulsion to make a deal, in the sense that it is required to take the highest bid, subject only to the approval of the court.' (Citations omitted; emphasis in original; internal quotation marks omitted.) New England Savings Bank v. Lopez, 227 Conn. 270, 280, 630 A.2d 1010 (1993). No appellate case has established whether there is a certain percentage of fair market value below which a sale would trigger a trial court's obligation to reject a foreclosure sale on the ground that the price was inadequate or unfair as a matter of law. Nevertheless, this court has affirmed a court's approval of a foreclosure sale yielding as little as 40 percent of the property's fair market value. See LaSalle Bank, N.A. v. Randall, supra, 125 Conn. App. 31.

Turning to the present matter, although it is undisputed that the price obtained at the foreclosure sale was substantially less than the fair market value determined by the court at the time of the foreclosure judgment, the defendants presented no claim to the court that the low sale price was the result of any irregularities in the sale process or in 'the equitable process of the court.' The defendants' claim, rather, was solely that the sale price was inadequate per se. At the hearing on the motion for approval of the sale, however, the defendants did not produce a witness or proffer any other evidence from which the court could have found that the sale price was fundamentally unfair under the circumstances presented or that a new sale likely would have yielded a better outcome. When the court directly asked the defendants' counsel whether the defendants had any indication that they would get better offers at a new sale, counsel answered only that there was a chance. Such speculation alone cannot provide a legal basis on which to deny approval of a foreclosure sale that was conducted without any irregularities."

- Hudson Valley Bank v. Kissel, 303 Conn. 614, 622-623, 35 A3d 260, 266 (2012). "In evaluating whether the motions to intervene were rendered untimely by virtue of being made after the foreclosure sale, we examined the nature of the interest asserted by each of the intervenors – both relied on an asserted right of redemption – and whether those rights survived the foreclosure sale. . . Because a foreclosure sale is not absolute until it is confirmed by the court, we concluded that the right of redemption survives the foreclosure sale, and, therefore, that a motion to intervene to protect the right of redemption is timely when filed before confirmation of the sale. Similarly, in the present case, First American's only asserted interest in the foreclosure action was in receiving the surplus proceeds. Because the foreclosure sale did not extinguish that interest, we conclude that the filing of the motion to intervene following the sale and prior to the confirmation of the sale was timely."
- Hudson Valley Bank v. Kissel, 303 Conn. 614, 626, 35 A3d 260, 266 (2012). "Finally, we address Stewart Title's claim that the trial court improperly concluded that First American was entitled to recover all of the surplus proceeds. The trial court arrived at its conclusion by applying the doctrine of pari passu. First American argues that the trial court's decision may be affirmed on the alternate ground that, pursuant to the first in time, first in right principle, First American was entitled to recover all of the surplus proceeds because its mortgage was executed and recorded prior to that of Stewart Title. We agree with First American that the judgment of the trial court may be affirmed on this alternate ground.

'The law relating to the priority of interest has its roots in early Connecticut jurisprudence. A fundamental principle is that a mortgage that is recorded first is entitled to priority over subsequently recorded mortgages provided that every grantee has a reasonable time to get his deed recorded.'

Independence One Mortgage Corp. v. Katsaros, 43 Conn. App. 71, 73, 681 A.2d 1005 (1996)."

- Ocwen Federal Bank v. Charles, 95 Conn. App. 315, 326, 898 A2d 197, 206 (2006). "We note that the plaintiff brought a foreclosure action. 'Such actions are equitable in nature and, therefore, do not give rise to a right to a jury trial under article first, § 19, of the Connecticut constitution.' 669 Atlantic Street Associates v. Atlantic-Rockland Stamford Associates, 43 Conn. App. 113, 129, 682 A.2d 572, cert. denied, 239 Conn. 949, 950, 686 A.2d 126 (1996). The defendants were not entitled to a jury trial on the foreclosure action. The court's decision to sever the equitable foreclosure action from the legal counterclaim is not of constitutional dimension, but properly is characterized as a claim involving the law of the case doctrine."
- Voluntown v. Rytman, 27 Conn. App. 549, 555, 607 A.2d 896, 899 (1992). "It has been held, however, that when the value of the property substantially exceeds the value of the lien being foreclosed, the trial court abuses its discretion when it refuses to order a foreclosure by sale."
- Fidelity Trust Co. v. Irick, 206 Conn. 484, 488, 538 A.2d 1027, 1029 (1988). "In a foreclosure proceeding the authority of the trial court to order either a strict foreclosure or a foreclosure by sale is clear. General Statutes § 49-24 provides: 'All liens and mortgages affecting real property may, on the written motion of any party to any suit relating thereto, be foreclosed by a decree of sale instead of a strict foreclosure at the discretion of the court before which the foreclosure proceedings are pending.' In interpreting this statute, we have stated that '[i]n Connecticut, the law is well settled that whether a mortgage is to be foreclosed by sale or by strict foreclosure is a matter within the sound discretion of the trial court. General Statutes § 49-24; City Savings Bank v. Lawler, 163 Conn. 149, 155, 302 A.2d 252 (1972); Hartford Federal Savings & Loan Assn. v. Lenczyk, 153 Conn. 457, 463, 217 A.2d 694 (1966). `The foreclosure of a mortgage by sale is not a matter of right, but rests in the discretion of the court before which the foreclosure proceedings are pending.' Bradford Realty Corporation v. Beetz, 108 Conn. 26, 31, 142 A. 395 (1928).' Hartford Federal Savings & Loan Assn. v. Tucker, 196 Conn. 172, 184, 491 A.2d 1084, cert. denied, 474 U.S. 920, 106 S.Ct. 250, 88 L.Ed.2d 258 (1985)."

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

 Bibliographic resources relating to foreclosure by market sale in Connecticut pursuant to CT General Statutes 49-24 to 49-24g.

DEFINITION:

• "SUMMARY: By law, in a foreclosure proceeding involving real property, the court may issue a judgment of (1) foreclosure by sale, which usually involves auctioning the property, or (2) strict foreclosure, which transfers title to the lender. This act adds another option for certain residential properties, called "foreclosure by market sale," which is a court-approved sale on the open market. The mortgagee (lender) must request and the mortgagor (borrower) must consent to such a sale. The act limits this option to the first mortgage on a one-to-four family residential property that is the mortgagor's residence.

The act establishes procedures for foreclosure by market sale, including requirements for the foreclosure notice, property appraisal, listing agreement, and purchase and sale contract. The act allows a mortgagee to proceed with other foreclosure options if certain conditions are not met.

The act also establishes court procedures for foreclosure by market sale, including a process that allows subordinate lienholders to preserve their interests in the property. It requires the court to appoint someone to execute the conveyance of the sold property and exempts such a transfer from the real estate conveyance tax.

The act specifies that it should not be construed as requiring either the mortgagor or the mortgagee to (1) proceed with discussions after the foreclosure by market sale notice has been sent, (2) reach an agreement regarding a listing agent, or (3) approve any purchase offers received.

Lastly, the act bars a mortgagor who consents to foreclosure by market sale from participating in the state's foreclosure mediation program, but allows him or her to petition the court to participate under certain circumstances."

Table 1: Excerpts from the Legislative History of Connecticut Public Act 14-84 (Conn. Gen. Stats. §§ 49-24 to 49-24g)

	The Connecticut General Assembly
The House of Representatives
Thursday, May 1, 2014
PURPOSE:	Rep. Tong (147th):
	"Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker. This bill creates a new optional method of foreclosure. It creates an alternative whereby a mortgagor and the mortgagee, the homeowner and the lender can come together early in the process and decide that instead of entering the process of foreclosure, which can take a very long time, they can contract with a real estate broker and put the property up for sale and get a market price.
	It's a foreclosure by market sale alternative to a strict foreclosure or a foreclosure by auction, which is what many of us are used to seeing."
ELIGIBILITY FOR FORECLOSURE	Rep. Tong (147th):
MEDIATION PARTICIPATION:	" Once you select the foreclosure by market sale process you are no longer eligible to participate in the foreclosure mediation program. However, if that market sale should fall apart and you meet certain strict requirements, your right to participate in foreclosure mediation could spring back to life."
JUNIOR/ SECONDARY LIEN	Rep. Alberts (50th):
HOLDER	"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Now, one of the things that we've been trying to do in this legislation is to make sure that there is protection for the junior lien holders.
	In Section 8 there's a lot of language that refers to the law day methodology and the right of junior lien holders to have access to potentially buy out their interests.
	Could the proponent explain how this would work?"
	Rep. Tong (147th):

"... yes. After the point at which the homeowner, mortgagor, has entered into a contract with a potential purchaser, the court is given an opportunity to review that contract and make some findings.

Within a period after the court has made its findings and approved the foreclosure by market sale, the secondary lien holders then have an opportunity in a manner of speaking, to redeem their liens and their interest by tendering the full purchase price set forth in the contract.

So a secondary lien holder can step forward and say, I'll buy the property. If they do that, they will do so through a law day process, which created a right of first refusal law day, so essentially they'll have a right of first refusal and they can exercise that on an appointed law day within 30 days of the judgment approving the market sale, and those law days will proceed in inverse order of priority and the secondary lien holders will have the opportunity to tender the full purchase price or not."

FORECLOSURES ALREADY IN PROGRESS:

Rep. Alberts (50th):

"... And I understand that if there's a regular foreclosure action that's already started, this new process that we're contemplating today cannot be used for that. Is that not correct?

Rep. Tong (147th):

"... that's correct."

SIMILARITIES TO REGULAR SALE:

Rep. Alberts (50th):

"... Now, even though we're proceeding and creating a new option of foreclosure to add to strict foreclosure in deed in lieu, there are some elements as I read them that are very similar to the present methodology, so for example, in a typical real estate closing, there's some adjustment often by the parties for the purchase price for things such as real estate taxes, fuel oil, so those real estate contracts that are contemplated there, those would still have the same issues, the same resolution as a typical sale. Is that not correct?"

Rep. Tong (147th): "... Yes, this process and the bill contemplates that many of the processes that we're used to both in a real estate transaction, but also in the context of a foreclosure, pertain here. A lot of the process will be addressed by standing orders of the court. There will be the participation of a committee that will handle the money at the outset and deposit that money into court, and as part of that process, there may be adjustments because of home heating oil or other adjustments that need to be made, and those will be governed by the contract and in accordance with the court's normal process." SALE PROCEEDS Rep. Alberts (50th): TO CLERK: "... so for example, the buyer would pay any funds to that court appointed committee that you referenced just as they would do in a traditional foreclosure by sale. Is that correct . . Rep. Tong (147th): . . . yes. Those funds come in, but they are then transported and deposited into court to the clerk of the court and the clerk will determine, based on the court's direction, how much of those proceeds are to be distributed to the seller of the property. In this instance it will be essentially distributed to the first position mortgagee at some point, and then if there are expenses of sale like real estate broker commissions, those will be given in one check back to the committee by the court. The court will issue a check to the committee and the committee will then distribute those funds accordingly." Rep. Diminico (13th): BENEFITS: "... I rise in support of this bill as well, having had the opportunity to work on this bill in a collaborative way with the Connecticut Bankers Association, the Connecticut Association of Realtors and the Housing Coalition, facilitated by the Commissioner of Banking, Howard Pitkin, who I'd like to thank publicly. This is a bill that's a home run for all, for the mortgagor and the mortgagee. It will provide the mortgagor to stay in the home so it doesn't become blighted, provide the opportunity not to become stigmatized in a foreclosure process, and somewhat preserve their credit scores.

	It will also be a benefit to the neighborhood because the house won't become blighted, as well as to the community and it will be home run for all because it will be put on the open market, which will bring more money, which in turn will not impact values. As a matter of fact, it will increase the values in the long run for the real estate market, which will be a benefit to all."
ROLE OF THE COMMITTEE:	Rep. Smith (108th):  "So when does the committee come into play? Do they actually conduct the sale once a contract is entered into? Is that how it works?"
	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" they are in a manner of speaking, charged with conducting the sale, but I think in practical terms, their role is to manage the transfer of the proceeds from the sale to the clerk of the court, and then once the clerk of the court decides how the proceeds are to be distributed and what expenses are to be paid, and how the proceeds are to be paid out, then those funds will be paid back to the committee and the committee will distribute those with the authorization of the court"
	Rep. Smith (108th):
	" So as I understand it then, once the sale is agreed upon and actually transpires, a check is issued. I suspect it's issued to the court. The committee would then transfer the check to the court. The judge makes the determination of who gets paid what. Are checks then issued back to the committee for disbursement purposes? Just to be sure"
	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" that is correct."
ROLE OF THE	Rep. Smith (108th):
COMMITTEE, CONT'D:	"And other than the conduit to disburse the checks, does the committee have any other role?"

	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" I believe that the committee's role will include preparing the deed and getting it approved."
	Rep. Smith (108th):
	" does the committee have any role in preparing the contract and negotiating the sale?"
	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" no, the committee has no role in that process."
COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS:	Rep. Smith (108th):
	"I thank the gentleman for his answers and just to continue along. I noticed as I was listening, that it seems that this only applies to residential mortgages and not commercial transactions. Is that accurate?"
	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" that is correct."
REVERSE MORTGAGES:	Rep. Smith (108th):
HORTGAGES.	"And I also thought I saw some language in the bill that it does not apply to reverse mortgages. Is that accurate?"
	Rep. Tong (108th):

Rep. Smith (108th):

"And you discussed a junior lien holder's positions and how that all works, and that was one of my concerns with the bill when it came before the Judiciary Committee, which seems to have been resolved, and then I was interrupted so I didn't hear all your answers.

So if you could just again, explain how that works. I have some understanding of the inverse order but let's, I'm going to give you a scenario.

Let's assume there's just three junior lien holders. The one in second place decides to match the purchase price. What type of process has to take place? Do they have to actually issue a check? Do they have to just give notice of that desire? How does that work?"

Rep. Tong (147th):

"... just as a threshold matter, I should note that the amendment, the bill contemplates that these are properties that at the outset are under water with respect to the first position mortgagee.

It contemplates that we're already in a position where the homeowner owes more on the first mortgage than the house is worth.

That being said, and so against that backdrop, the secondary lien holders will likely not have much of an opportunity to recover anything in any event.

That being said, we as a committee and as a group of collaborators working on this bill, wanted to make sure that the rights of secondary lien holders were acknowledged and to the extent that we could, provide them an opportunity to participate in this process and so what happens now is, there will be set right of first refusal law days.

Within 30 days of the judgment of foreclosure by market sale, the court must set law days in reverse order of priority for each secondary lien holder. So let's assume in your paradigm that are four, three additional secondary lien holders, they would go in reverse order of priority and so the last in priority would go first, and they would have the opportunity to tender the full purchase price set forth in the contract. They have to do that on that day by tendering a check, which will be paid into court." Rep. Smith (108th): "And I thank the Chairman for his clarification on that. I understand the concept here that this probably will mostly apply to those who are under water, those properties who are under water. Does it have to be a situation where the properties are under water for this to apply?" Rep. Tong (147th): "... yes." . . . Rep. Smith (108th): "So there's language in the amendment that talks about doing an appraisal and the appraisal, I guess, would be given to the court and then a determination would have to be made that the property is, in fact, under water before this process could be, they could proceed with this process? Rep. Tong (147th): "... yes." CONVEYANCE Rep. Smith (108th): TAXES: "And this may be in the bill and it may not be. I'm just wondering. As I'm sure the Representative knows, many of these foreclosure sales, the conveyance taxes are exempted, transfer taxes. Is there language in this bill that would also exempt the conveyance taxes?" Rep. Tong (147th): "That is correct."

FORECLOSURES ALREADY IN PROGRESS, CONT'D:

Rep. Smith (108th):

"And for this procedure to apply, based on what I've heard so far, I suspect the property, the foreclosure has to have been commenced for this to apply. I'm assuming."

Rep. Tong (147th):

"... I want to clarify the good Representative's questions. It's very clear under the bill that notice must be given at the outset of the option to pursue foreclosure by market sale. It is a process that can be undertaken by consent of both the mortgagor and the first position mortgagee.

That process must be commenced at the outset and then the commencement of foreclosure reflects that agreement.

What this bill does not provide for is if you are already in foreclosure, you cannot somewhere down the line choose a foreclosure by market sale according to the language in this bill."

MEDIATION/ JUDGMENT:

Rep. Smith (108th):

"And then just lastly, and I'll continue to listen to the debate. The conditions by which one can get back into mediation, I know they're set forth in the bill. I just didn't have a chance to peer through those. If the Chairman could just explain those."

Rep. Tong (147th):

"... It's set forth in Section 7, starting at line 208 and it provides that there may be testimony or affidavits in support or opposition to such petition that the petitioner cannot be motivated by, primarily by a desire to delay the entry of judgment of foreclosure.

The court must find at line 216, 217, that it is highly probable that the parties will reach an agreement through mediation and in line 218 the mortgagee shall have the right to request the entry of a judgment of foreclosure in accordance with the other provisions of the law."

	Don Croith (100th).
JUDGMENT:	Rep. Smith (108th):
	" Assuming the market sale goes through and the sale actually takes place and the bank has issued a check, I'm assuming there is no judgment that is actually entered against the mortgagor. Is that accurate?"
	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" it is a judgment of foreclosure by market sale. It is unlike a judgment of foreclosure. I think you're referring to a, you know, a judgment of foreclosure in the normal course under our current statutes. No, it is not the same judgment."
PURPOSE, cont'd:	Rep. Smith (108th):
	"You know, this is, ladies and gentlemen, the foreclosures in Connecticut are still rampant and this is an effort, and I give the Chairman and the ranking member and Representative Diminico, who have worked on this bill a lot of credit. I know they've been working on this for the past few years and it looks like they put together a fine bill here that will help, hopefully, a lot of people in Connecticut.
	It's not unusual for those properties that are underwater for the people to just throw up their hands and kind of walk away and then do a foreclosure by sale. A foreclosure by sales generally do not render very much money, if at all to the bank, so then the bank has to take title and sell it again.
	This, hopefully, will bring more money to the parties so there's less of a deficiency, if one at all and actually make for a fair and marketable sale, so I stand in support of the bill and the amendment, or in support of the amendment and the bill as it becomes law."
PURPOSE, cont'd:	Rep. Berger (73rd):
	"The delays in moving property that are foreclosed on has a chilling effect on the real estate market, deflates the entire market, both in the residential and commercial sector, devalues the market and ultimately devalues the properties in all of our communities throughout the State of Connecticut.  So the work that has been done on this strike-all amendment will help alleviate that, bring back stability, Mr. Speaker, to our neighborhoods and to our real estate market ultimately

APPRAISAL	Rep. Candelora (86th):
	"In Section 5 there's a reference to an appraisal that's mutually agreed upon between the mortgagee and mortgagor.  My first question is, can those appraisals be done by a realtor or are we envisioning the full license appraisal of the house that you typically see when somebody's going out to get a mortgage?"   Rep. Tong (147th):  " it would be conducted in accordance with current law, which I believe would be a full licensed appraisar."
	which I believe would be a full licensed appraiser."
APPRAISAL, CONT'D:	Rep. Candelora (86th):  " So just to be clear then, there's no language in this bill that apportions the cost of the appraisal to either party. It's whatever current law is?"
	Rep. Tong (147th):
	" that is correct."
